PSYCHOLOGICAL SCIENCE

FIRST CYCLE DEGREE

Starting from the academic year 2015/16 the University of Padova plans to inaugurate a new first cycle degree program in English called "Psychological Science". The prestigious University of Padova will provide an all-English integrated curriculum for Italian and International students.

The aim is to offer a training course that includes the main topics of Psychology, providing basic theoretical and methodological knowledge of General Psychology, Psychobiology, Clinical Psychology, Social Psychology and Psychometrics.

The compulsory courses will be:

- Basic concepts of psychology
- Brain and behaviour
- Introduction to statistical methods in Psychology
- Developmental psychology
- Communication and social Psychology
- Psychology of individual differences
- Work and organization psychology
- Psychoanalysis in a modern perspective
- Clinical Psychology
- Introduction to health Psychology

The graduates can find professional occupations in public or private bodies, in education, and in enterprises and organisations of the third sector. Under the supervision of a Psychologist (with a second cycle degree) they can work in services caring for the individual, groups, organisations and communities in promoting health. All these sectors are related to psychometric assessment, psychosocial assistance and human resource development across the life span.

This program supplies the bases of psychological knowledge for foreign students and for the Italian students that wish to approach the academic and professional labour market at international level.

To be approved by the Ministry of Education, University and Research
